

FACULTY OF EDUCATION (FSEDU)

HISTORY

Founded in 2002, the Faculty of Education at the Saint Joseph University of Beirut remains faithful to the Jesuit mission that drives it. It is meant to be a place that vibrates with life and aims to provide full support for learners, emphasizing training in human values as well as academic excellence. It also tends to train learners to become critical-minded researchers curious about knowledge. Since 2017, the Faculty has adopted trilingualism, offering programs in French, Arabic, and English.

VISION - MISSION-VALUES

VISION

A vision for the next ten years

The Faculty of Education adopts a Humanizing Pedagogy and looks forward to cultivating learners who possess values of transparency, justice, and equity for the purpose of serving an inclusive human community. The Faculty is keen to provide learners with comprehensive education aiming to develop their intrapersonal, interpersonal, intellectual, and pedagogical skills. It also seeks to prepare learners as innovative researchers who can contribute to the development of the academic community at the national, regional, and international levels.

Components of the Faculty Vision

The Faculty of Education aims to achieve the following goals:

- Promote the human, social, academic, and scientific influence of the Faculty.
- Work on the development of human values and professional ethics.
- Promote community service values and coexistence values.
- Support academic and pedagogical excellence.
- Consolidate research in all its forms.

Faculty Actions to Fulfill the Vision

The Faculty of Education takes on the following actions:

- Adopt distributed leadership that involves members of the educational community in implementing actions and decision-making.
- Implement human-centered innovative educational strategies that enhance digital learning.
- Prioritize the holistic accompaniment of learners at the personal and collective levels.
- Establish partnerships to support the Faculty's policy of openness at the national, regional, and international levels.

MISSION

The mission of the Faculty of Education revolves around 4 principal axes:

- Preparing professional educationalists who possess human and social values: The Faculty adopts a Humanizing Pedagogy that aims at comprehensively preparing the learner, contributing to their personal and social development, and urging them to serve others.
- Promoting excellence in academic and educational training: The Faculty seeks to achieve human, academic and educational excellence among learners by encouraging each one of them to do their best. It monitors the quality assurance of the academic programs and the innovative teaching strategies and promotes learners' discernment and critical thinking skills.
- Bridging practice to university research: The Faculty considers research as its main concern and integrates it into all its professional programs. The Faculty seeks to prepare professionals capable of reflecting on and analyzing their own practices.
- Playing a role at the national, regional, and international levels: The Faculty aims to play a leading role in the development of the Lebanese education system by responding to the national educational needs and requirements. It also seeks to contribute to the development of the education sector at the regional and international levels.

VALUES

In line with the Jesuit identity of the University, the Faculty aims to develop the following values among its learners:

- Intellectual, cultural, pedagogical, social, and human excellence.
- Respect for others, pluralism, and individual and collective freedom.
- Intellectual autonomy, discernment, and critical thinking.
- Community service and inclusive coexistence.
- Research in the service of community.
