

During the last two hundred years, the reform movements in the Arab World have suffered successive failures. At the same time, the Arab World has been exposed to successive attacks, the culmination of which being the creation of the State of Israel in Palestine. This poses the question: Is the Arab World at risk?