

Marianne Moussallem, DDS, MPH

Marianne studied dentistry at the Saint Joseph University of Beirut. She is a holder of a master's degree in public health with a focus on epidemiology and biostatistics from the University of Paris Saclay.

Currently, she teaches modules on health epidemiology and biostatistics and work as a public health researcher at USJ. She is also responsible for the O7 cell at ISSP through which many public health interventions targeting the Lebanese community have been carried out. Her research work is mainly oriented towards the evaluation of public health initiatives, projects, policies, and interventions at the national, regional, and global level.